72 Bid for Party Nominations In County, District

Field's Largest In Years; 8 Out For Sheriff's Job.

Forty-one Republicans and 31 Democrats had filed their petitions of candidacy today for 15 county and district offices.

A last minute rush to beat the 6:30 p. m. filing deadline yesterday boosted to an even 50 the number of candidates seeking nominations to 10 county offices. Twenty-nine are Republicans and 21 are Democrats.

Election board officials said the field was one of the largest in recent years.

The lineup today for the May 14 primary found eight candidates without opposition, including four incumbents.

They are J. Harry McGregor, West Lafayette (R), elected at a special election last month to fill the unexpired term of the late 17th district congressman William A. Ashbrook; County Commissioners Guy Stewart and Ray Hout, Democrats, seeking re-election, and County Engineer Howard C. Sword, unopposed for the Democratic nomination.

The others are Assistant County Prosecutor Harold T. Lutz, (D), who filed for prosecutor; Atty. Stuart H. Cramer, who is seeking the probate judgship on the Republican ticket; Charles Payne, Shelby, Democrat for county treasurer; Dr. Lewis B. McCullough, for coroner on the Democrat ticket and Dr. Francis M. Wadsworth, candidate for coroner on the Republican ticket.

One record was established when eight candidates filed for sheriff to succeed E. P. Long, Democrat, who is completing his second term.

There was seven entries for county representative to the general assembly and six candidates each for recorder and clerk of courts.

In sharp contrast with the special primary held last month when 10 candidates entered the race for the 17th district congressman, only three had filed for the nominations in May.

They include McGregor, Ralph C. Lutz, Lexington, (D), Richland county representative to the general assembly, and Samuel A. An-

73 In Field for Nominations In State Contests

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Seventy-three candidates set out today in Ohio's spectacular biennial political rodeo to convince the voters they should be nominated for 11 state-wide offices.

Each party—Republicans and Democrats—will select 11 in the May 14 primary to compete in the November election.

Forty-eight Democrats and 25 Republicans will be on the statewide ballot. Forty-two Republicans and 41 Democrats also are competing for nominations in the 22 congressional districts.

The field lined up late yesterday at the deadline for filing declarations of candidacy with the secretary of state.

Ohio's delegations to the Democratic and Republican national conventions were assured for President Roosevelt and Senator Robert A. Taft, respectively, after party leaders filed uncontested slates of delegate candidates.

In the first and 19th districts, however, delegate candidates were entered in opposition to the selections of national committeeman, Charles Sawyer, "favorite son" presidential candidate of the Democrats.

While Sawyer is the "favorite son," the 52 Ohio votes at the Democratic convention are pledged to President Roosevelt if he wants a third term.

The Democratic delegate-at-large slate is a harmony proposition designed to embrace not only all factions of the party but representatives of groups of voters "organized along social, economic or industrial lines," Sawyer said.

It includes Sawyer, former Governors Martin L. Davey and George White, State Chairman Arthur L. Limbach, national committeewoman Mildred R. Jaster, Michael J. Lyden of Youngstown, president of the Ohio Federation of Labor; John Owens of Cambridge, president of the Ohio CIO; Joseph W. Fichter of Oxford, a lecturer for the national grange, and Joseph E. Bowman, Negro attorney of Columbus.

Davey and White also are con-

CITY GETS NEW SNOW BLANKET

Fall Measures 6 Inches for 3 Days; Rain to Follow Rise In Mercury.

Another snowfall measuring 2.7 inches, blotted out any early signs of spring today and gave Mansfield six inches of snow in the past three days.

With the mercury hovering between 25 degrees and freezing, most of last night's snow fell after midnight. The storm extended over northern and eastern Ohio and at Fremont there was a four-inch fall. Highways were slushy over most of the area covered by snow.

Partly cloudy weather was forecast for tonight. Sunday will be warmer, but cloudiness by night is expected to bring rain, the weatherman said.

Bright sunshine pushed the temperature up to 38 degrees at noon today. The low last night was 25.

Simpson Dedicated as Monument to Learning

By VIRGIL A. STANFIELD

It would have gladdened the heart of John Simpson, pioneer Mansfield educator, to see the new junior high school building that perpetuates his name last night when it officially became a part of the Mansfield school system.

Sixty-seven years ago he was chosen superintendent of the city's schools. Last night three generations of his descendants were represented when the new John Simpson building, the finest in modern school construction, was dedicated while more than 1,000 persons looked on.

It was estimated that nearly 6,000 Mansfielders inspected the new $450,000 school in the afternoon and evening and all of them must have left wondering how it would be possible to build a more spacious school plant.

Speaking at ceremonies in the auditorium Dr. Karl Leebrick, president of Kent State university, dedicated the building as "a monument to a faith that education will enable us to preserve our democratic form of government and obtain the objectives we set for ourselves in the Declaration of Independence."

Dr. Leebrick pointed out that in our democracy the people have more to say about how their money shall be spent than they had in past ages and they are using it to erect educational structures that will help to preserve the work of the founders of the nation.

ACCUSED CHILD MOLESTER SANE

Beck, Indicted on 17 Counts By Jury, Given Mental Test by 3 Doctors.

Given a sanity test last night by three Mansfield physicians, George Beck, 25, indicted by the grand jury as a child molester, was found sane and his arraignment in common pleas court was set for early next week.

Beck, held in the county jail under $5,000 bond since his arrest three weeks ago, was indicted on 17 counts, including open indictments for kidnaping and child stealing. He admitted molesting or attempting to molest 13 small girls in Mansfield and Shelby in recent weeks.

At the request of Prosecutor G. W. Marriott he was examined at the jail by Dr. Hugh Winbigler, Dr. D. C. Lavender, and Dr. F. J. Heringhaus.

All but one of 14 other men and youths who were indicted Thursday by the grand jury pleaded guilty this morning when arraigned before Judge C. H. Huston in common pleas court. The other defendant entered no plea.

The defendants were to be sent-

Here's Palm Reading of Palm Sunday's Edition

YOU may be surprised to learn that the pretty senoritas who listen to the Gaucho serenade down in Rio de Janeiro look for the Mansfield label on their cosmetics, but they do. So do the mulattos of Morocco and the duchesses, if any, of Dutch Guiana. Jane Williams tells you about it in next Sunday's edition of the News-Journal, in the third of a series of stories on "What Mansfield Makes."

Mr. Stinnet Goes to Washington.

Jack Stinnett, reputed to have a pair of the sharpest ears in newspaperdom, goes to Washington to bring News-Journal readers a fresh picture of the nation's capital and its activities on the eve of a presidential election. Replacing Preston Grover, Associated Press Washington correspondent who has been transferred to Europe, Stinnett brings to his new assignment a background of skillfull reporting on everything from night clubs to kidnaping. His dispatches will appear for the first time on the editorial page Sunday and periodically thereafter.

State Tournament Scores.

On the sports pages in addition to complete local and national coverage, will be carried final results of the state basketball tournament which winds up in Columbus Saturday night.

Report German Offer Receives 'Cold Shoulder'

Peace In Finland Turns Spotlight On Struggle For Rumanian Oil; Germany's Plan Would Guarantee Nation From Russian Aggression Under Pact.

(By Associated Press)

Peace in the north swung the spotlight across restless Europe today to intense diplomatic maneuvering centering on Rumania, whose grain and oil bulk importantly in the European war.

In the latest development in the ceaseless jockeying for position, Rumania was reported to have turned a cold shoulder toward a German plan under which Hungarian and Soviet Russian border guarantees would be won through concessions to Germany.

Russia has her eyes on Rumania because the latter gained Bessarabia from imperial Russia in the World war; Hungary seeks Transylvania, which once belonged to the Austro-Hungarian empire; Germany needs Rumanian products to ease the effects of the Allied blockade.

Under the reported German plan, Germany would engineer a 25-year Russian-Rumanian non-aggression pact and a 10-year Hungarian pledge not to press for territorial revision in return for these concessions by Rumania.

Demobilization of most of her 1,600,000 soldiers so they can return to fields and factories to accelerate production.

Granting of a virtual German monopoly on Rumania's exports of oil, cereals and other supplies.

Rumanians said the terms were "intolerable."

Sumner Welles, United States undersecretary of state, neared the end of his fact-finding mission in Europe with his second visit to Rome and new conferences with Italian leaders.

The German ambassador made a surprise visit to the Italian foreign office presumably to deliver an urgent message while the American conferred with Italy's foreign minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano.

Monday the American undersecretary will meet Pope Pius XII.

Finland's forced peace with Soviet Russia received the approval of the diet in Helsinki by a vote of 145 to 3 and the war-torn republic faced the long, hard task of reconstruction.

As the retreat of the troops toward the new frontiers progressed, Finns said they would begin fortification immediately of the border zone.

Japan protested to Soviet Russia over a new border incident between those two powers. About a dozen Soviet and two Japanese casualties were reported in Japanese dispatches from an armed clash on Sakhalin island, ownership of which is divided between Japan and Russia.

The German high command reported Nazi air raiders over the

FRANCE SHIFTS WAR CABINET

Paris Hears Daladier Will Relinquish War Ministry In Favor of Gamelin.

(By International News Service)

PARIS—Creation of a strong new French war cabinet giving Generalissimo Maurice Marie-Gustav Gamelin a powerful voice in political as well as military affairs was predicted in Paris today.

Corridors of the chamber of deputies buzzed with reports that Premier Edouard Daladier planned to relinquish the war ministry in Gamelin's favor, with General George taking over active command of the army.

There was no immediate confirmation of the reports that a major shake-up of Daladier's cabinet was impending, but it was thought likely that announcement soon would be made of a new "streamlined" government in which smaller ministries would be subordinated and the cabinet itself consolidated into 10 major portfolios.

LONDON—(AP)—A storm arising out of criticism of Britain's wartime supply ministry increased sharply today with a charge by a dismissed ministry official that he had been "sacrificed" by supply minister, Leslie Burgin.

In the midst of demands for Burgin's resignation, Robert Behar, one of three ministry officials dismissed spectacularly March 5 without explanation, issued a statement charging that Burgin, "embarrassed by attacks on his department and by questions in the house of commons, sacrificed me in a miscalculated political manuever."

SHIP CRASHES ROCKS, ASKS AID

Australian Steamer Sends Message She's 'Sinking Fast.'

SAN FRANCISCO—(AP)—The Australian steamer Kahika, 1537 gross tons, reported today it was "sinking fast" after piling up on rocks in a pass between the tip of Australia and Tasmania.

An SOS asking for immediate assistance was picked up by the Matson passenger liner Monterey, enroute from Auckland, N. Z., to Sydney, Australia, and relayed to Globe wireless in San Francisco.

The Kahika pleaded for any ship available to "render immediate assistance." The Monterey reported the nearest ship was 90 miles away, but did not name the vessel.

QUITS AT GALION

Frank Cook Was Police Chief For 14 Years.

GALION—(NS)—Frank Cook, Galion police chief for the last 14 years, today resigned after 30 years service with the department.

Mayor W. M. King said Cook gave ill health as the reason for his retirement. Capt. George Moody will be acting chief.

PRESIDENT STILL ILL

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Roosevelt tried today to shake off a tenacious cold so that he could attend a dinner to be given in his honor tonight by the White House Correspondents association. The president's cold is the most severe he has had all winter.

Whew! Skunks Are Hungry, They Raid Town's Groceries

WILLIAMSVILLE, N. Y.—(NS)—This town is in the market for a new kind of Pied Piper.

The town is overrun with skunks.

The town board was besieged by aroused citizenry last night and could offer no relief.

Mrs. Alvin E. Ouchell demanded in vain that police remove one from her living room. The police commander said he didn't even have authority to move one from the rear of police headquarters.

A woman motorist said her car was "damaged beyond repair" after a collision with one. Grocers said their stores were being invaded by them in broad daylight, and their goods dragged away to skunk nests.

Town Clerk Bill Legg explained: "The state protects the danged things. Village ordinance prevents shooting. What can we do?"

Conservation Official Willard Tillman had a theory: The skunks were coming to town for good because their natural forage had been covered by snow for a long time.

As the town board meeting adjourned, Clerk Legg told the people it was "just a case of every man holding his own nose."

Court Injunctions Threatened In Battle Over Census

TOBEY CLAIMS LETTERS BACK HIS CRITICISM

Senator Declares Citizens In All Parts of Country Willing To File Suit.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The "battle of the census" may shift from congress and the White House to the courts.

This word came today from the office of Senator Tobey (R.-NH.), who is leading the fight to prevent census-takers from asking citizens how much money they make.

President Roosevelt, defending the income questions yesterday accused the Senator of inciting the public to violate the law. Tobey charged in turn that, if the president considered an "un-authorized ruling" of the census bureau to be the law of the land, then the people should recall "that such were the tactics used by Hitler in gaining powers never sanctioned by the people."

Mr. Roosevelt's statement was made through his press secretary, Stephen Early, and did not mention Tobey by name.

Charles Tobey, jr., the senator's son and secretary, told newsmen today that citizens in all parts of the country had written in, suggesting they were willing to seek injunctions against the income questions "as a violation of constitutional rights."

These letters were being studied, young Tobey said, with a view to bringing suits in representative areas throughout the country.

Administration supporters reported increasing indications that Senator Tobey would fail in his effort to obtain senate approval of his resolution declaring that the questions should be eliminated from the coming enumeration. The resolution was approved by the senate commerce committee recently.

Bailey Backs Proposal.

Chairman Bailey (D.-NC) of this group, who supported the Tobey proposal, said the plan announced by Secretary Hopkins since the committee voted had altered his position.

The commerce department secretary announced that citizens might avoid telling enumerators about their earnings by sealing unsigned answers to the income questions in an envelope which would be mailed to senate headquarters here. This procedure was designed to meet complaints that many of the 130,000 enumerators might be curious acquaintances or neighbors of those they questioned.

Finnish Minister In U. S. Engaged To Marry Briton

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Washington shortly will lose one of its most eligible bachelors as the Finnish legation today revealed the engagement of Finnish Minister Hjalmar Procope to Miss Margaret Shaw, of England.

A cablegram to the legation from Mrs. Adela Shaw, of Sutton-On-The-Forest, York, England, announced the engagement of her daughter to the 51-year-old diplomat. No date has been set for the wedding. Miss Shaw is now in Europe.

Procope is considered one of the most popular foreign envoys ever to have been stationed in the United States.

Every door of official Washington from the White House down to the office of the most minor bureau official has been open to him in recent months while he sought to muster support for his beleaguered nation.

Little is known in the capital concerning Procope's fiancee and she is not believed to have ever visited the United States. Friends believe the diplomat met Miss Shaw several years ago.

PLYMOUTH MAN QUITS AID JOB

Candidacy For Commissioner Post Brings Resignation.

The resignation of Cyrus L. Shoup of Plymouth township as an investigator in the county aid for the aged department was announced today by David S. Ireland, manager of the county office.

Shoup, a Republican candidate for county commissioner, had to leave his pension job to conduct a campaign, since a state law prohibits political activity by a pension worker.

An Ohio State reformatory trusty who escaped from the Sandusky honor camp two months ago was returned today from Cincinnati by reformatory guards.

Supt. Arthur L. Glattke identified the fugitive as Lawrence Stevie, 21, of Hamilton county. Stevie fled from the honor farm on Jan. 16, after serving five months of a one to 15-year sentence for burglary and larceny.

Up and Down THE STREET

Bromfield Bulletin No. 9,963: An Ohio-born actor will play the leading role in a movie drama written by an Ohio-born writer when Dean Jagger plays Brigham Young in the Louis Bromfield screen play. Jagger, who rose to stage prominence last season in "The Unconquered" in New York, will play the role of the Mormon apostle in the screen drama which Bromfield wrote last summer in Hollywood. Jagger is a native of Columbus Grove. Bromfield is said to have wanted Spencer Tracy to play Brigham Young, but Tracy is tied to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, while the movie will be made by 20th Century-Fox.

A teacher can quit teaching and turn to farming without being a "retired teacher," C. R. Wolford of Bloominggrove township, one of the three Republican candidates for state representative, contends. Referring to the word "retired" for representative, Wolford said used in a story about his filing "I changed my occupation, but I'm still going strong so far as activity is concerned."

If the Mansfield Service League is "always asking for something" it's because someone in Mansfield is always needing something, and this time it's gym suits for boys and girls at Johnny Appleseed junior high. Principal Glenn Rohleder says there are students at his building who look longingly at the new gym and can't use it because they can't afford to buy suits, and he has asked the Service League to help him. There probably are a lot of good, discarded suits around Mansfield in the possession of graduates and the league will take these, have them drycleaned and "tailor them to fit" the students. If you can outfit a boy or girl, call Mrs. Robert R. Black, Canal 1880.

The girls got the jump on the boys at the new Johnny Appleseed junior high school as the first to use the school's gymnasium and locker rooms. Although the school was dedicated last week, first gym classes were not held at the school until yesterday. The boys' classes will get under way next week.

JOB BENEFITS STILL CLIMBING

Unemployment compensation benefits to jobless workers in the Mansfield district reached a new high during February, C. W. Handley, manager of the Mansfield office of the state Bureau of Unemployment compensation reported today.

Last month a total of $22,018 was paid to unemployed workers in Richland, Ashland and Morrow counties as compared with $20,953 in January, the previous high month.

Chief reason for the steady increase in payments in the past two months was the addition of Ashland county to the Mansfield district, Handley reported. Benefit payments in January jumped 17 per cent over December as the result of the annexation.

Ashland county was made part of the Mansfield district Jan. 1. Previously the district had consisted of only Richland and Morrow counties.

Handley said a total of 499 claims were filed during February, an increase of 70 over the number the previous month.

Average weekly benefits paid to jobless workers in the district amounted to $9.97 as compared with a state average weekly payment of $10.55.

For partial unemployment, the average weekly benefit was $6.13, nearly $1 more than the state average payment of $5.18.

Placements in industry last month totaled 168, the same number as was made in January.

HALF OF CITY'S TENANTS PAY $25 OR LESS IN MONTHLY RENT

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the sixth of a series of articles on the work and findings of the Real Property Inventory, better known as the RPI, conducted by the WPA in Mansfield.

* * *

By HAROLD K. MANSFIELD
Director, Real Property Inventory

A study of rental figures will give hints about the size, location, age, preservation and general utility of the home, but these are generalizations and cannot be considered as definite proof of the homes value. Yet when homes are sold for their investment value, the rental income is of major importance.

In reading these average rentals and percentages, one must bear in mind that all sizes and types of dwelling units are included from the one room apartment to the home with a dozen rooms or more.

For Mansfield's 5761 tenant families, the average monthly rent is $24.05. Of these, 214 families or 3.8% pay $50 or more. The rental value of the owner occupied homes was also taken. For our 6400 owner families, the average monthly rental value is $32.85. Of these, 14.2% or 886 families place the rental value of their units at $50.00 or more.

The largest single rent group pays from $20.00 to $29.99 per month and constitutes 2086 families or 36.4% of our tenants. Next are the 1721 families or 30.1% who pay $10.00 to $19.99 per month. The balance of the groups are as follows: 1518 families or 26.6% pay $30.00 to $49.99 rent per month; 197 families or 3.4% pay $50.00 to $74.99 rent per month; 174 families or 3.1% pay under $10.00 per month and 17 families or .4% pay $75.00 or more rent per month.

The report on the 203 cities in the United States in which Real Property Inventories were taken during the years 1934 through 1936, shows "that for approximately 50 per cent of all rental dwelling units, the monthly rental falls below $25.00. In New York City the average rental was between $30 and $40, while at the other extreme over 70 per cent all rentals in the southeastern cities were under $20.00" Her in Mansfield, 52 per cent of our tenant families pay less than $25.00 per month for their dwelling units.

Now to look at our homes and see what they have to offer in the way of sanitary facilities. One of the most important conveniences in the modern home is plumbing. Nine thousand six hundred forty-two or 79½ per cent of all our homes have at least one complete bathroom.

Of this total, 5305 are owner-occupied which is 83.2% of the total owner-occupied units, and 4337 are tenant homes or 75.5% of the total tenant-occupied units. 9.7% of all dwellings have more than one bathroom per unit and are, naturally, the larger homes. Of these, the majority are occupied by their owners. There are 901 dwelling units with two toilets and one bath, of which 684 are owner-occupied, and 217 are tenant-occupied.

There are 282 dwellings with two toilets and two baths or more each, of which 223 are owner-occupied. Tenants occupy 59 such homes.

In nearly every classification, owner-occupied homes have better plumbing facilities than do tenant-occupied homes.

Next: Heating, lighting, cooking and refrigeration.

TRUSTEES ELECT

John Selby, Madison, Renamed President of Group.

John Selby, Madison township trustee, was re-elected president of the Richland County Association of Township Trustees and Clerks at the organization's annual meeting at the courthouse.

Principal speaker at the meeting was J. R. Thomas, Hayesville, state president of the association.

More than 20 candidates for Richland county offices in the May primary were introduced.

RIVERS FOUND GUILTY, FACES SECOND HEARING

Judge Keeps Him From Jail But Maps New Action In State's Highway Scrap.

(By Associated Press)

MACON, Ga—Barely escaping a night in jail, Governor E. D. Rivers conferred until near dawn today with his attorney general concerning his federal contempt conviction over the military lockout of evicted Highway Chairman W. L. Miller.

The Georgia governor was arrested near midnight, in dramatic fashion, on the stage of the municipal auditorium in which thousands of Georgia school teachers had acclaimed him the "greatest friend of education" in this state's history.

The arrest was based on a writ by Federal District Judge Bascom Deaver finding the Governor guilty of ignoring a previous order that he cease military interference with Miller's efforts to regain the office taken from him Dec. 2.

Deaver told the chief executive he arose from bed to grant the midnight hearing only to save him a night in jail and exacted a promise that Rivers would appear in court next Friday to show cause why he should not be permanently adjudged in contempt of court.

Praise from the floor of the Georgia education association's annual convention rang in Rivers' ears as Federal Marshal E. B. Doyle and deputies strode from stage wings and arrested the stocky, smiling governor.

At first, Rivers refused to submit to arrest, but acquiesced after marshal's forces told him they would use force. Accompanied by his pretty brunet wife, he hastened to the federal building to await the arrival of Deaver.

Both Rivers and his State Troop Chief John E. Stoddard, were cited for contempt three weeks ago for defying Deaver's temporary injunction against the martial-law lockout of Miller. The deposed official turned to federal court after Rivers set up a troop barrier to stymie execution of state court orders upholding him as rightful chairman.

Stoddard has not been served with the arrest warrant.

Not That It Matters

Why Not Be Indignant At Some of Those Questions They Ask for the Census

—By JANE WILLIAMS

IF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE have any spunk left after seven years of regimentation, there should be a lot of excitement next month when the Big Snoop of 1940 gets under way. But if we take this lying down, God help us.

The administration points to the fact that the censuses of other years caused a lot of indignation and protests. That's right, they did. Because each year more personal questions were added to what originally had been intended as a count of the people of the nation. And this year of 1940 has struck a new high in insolence and impertinence. The purpose, the administration admits, is to find out how much money you make, how much you are in debt, how much you spend, so that the industries of the country will know how much more you COULD spend. And incidentally (though this isn't admitted) how much more you could pay out in taxes.

Strangely enough, it isn't the salary and debt questions that irritate women most. It's the questions about who uses the bathroom, her age, the number of times she's been married and the number of children she's had.

Among the questions I've been asked by indignant women in the past two weeks are these:

"I don't mind enumerating my living children, but I simply can't bear to tell a stranger about my three babies that died in infancy. Do I have to answer this question and what possible good could it do the government?" I'd lie to the census taker. It's nobody's business.

"I don't like to talk about my age—even my husband doesn't know just how old I am. What can I say?" You got me, sister. I'm not going to be clear on this subject either, because I've lied about mine so much that I can't remember the truth. I start figuring from the time Lincoln was elected the first time and work up to the present, but I get two different answers—62 and 23, and neither sounds just right. And my father and husband will be no help. I've even got them confused.

The best plan, I think, is for women to stick together on this and just refuse to answer or say "I don't know." Mr. Roosevelt is shocked that citizens should openly defy the administration on the census, but then Mr. Roosevelt has been shocked before. Think nothing of it.

* * *

GRACIE ALLEN will have competition in her campaign for the presidency. W. C. Fields has entered the race and now Eddie Cantor, who used the gag back in 1932 has announced that his hat is in the ring. But I'll vote for Gracie because I think she is best equipped to carry on the New Deal program.

* * *

IF MARCH came in like a lamb, it was a wolf in sheep's clothing. . . . The Archduke Otto, long a pretender to the throne of the Hapsburgs in Austria, is visiting in New York City. As a pretender he won't attract much attention there. Too much competition from other phonies. . . A newspaper paragrapher points to the fact that Ohio is having its own "third term" problem in Martin L. Davey who aspires to be governor again. It isn't much of a problem, but such as it is, voters will take care of it possibly in May, but certainly not later than November. . . . Clark Gable and Spencer Tracy will do a scene in the old fashioned long underwear in "Boom Town," and if that doesn't quench the ardor of Gable feminine fans, nothing ever will. . . .

* * *

NOW IT can be told. There has been considerable mystery as to how the Children's Crusade for Children is being financed, since every penny collected from American school children (April 22-30 will go to the war desolated children of the world, with nothing taken out for overhead. Yet there are paid office workers and there certainly has been considerable cost in connection with the printing of campaign material.

Only a few on the "inside" knew the secret and the source of the money supply, which appeared as mysterious as that of Death Valley Scotty's.

It is being financed from the American publication profits of "Mein Kampf," Mr. Hitler's autobiography which is bigger than "Gone With The Wind" and twice as funny. Harry Sherman, president of the Book of The Month Club, which publishes "Mein Kampf" is turning over approximately $3,000 a month to finance the Children's Crusade. Those on the "inside" say that the publishers want this "tainted" money to be turned to some humanitarian use.

And what better use than that it aid the children of Europe whose woes started with the writing of "Mein Kampf" which only added fuel to the dictator's ambitions and set the cornerstone for a European war?

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Free-hand portrait of Warner Baxter talking to himself:

This thing is getting me down. I'm a ghost. I've been a ghost since we finished the first 30 pages of this "Earthbound" script. I'm a ghost that's always talking to people who don't hear me. The way this Lucien Andriot has fixed things I talk to see I don't see. Lucien's fixed us movie ghosts. We used to be photographed as transparent reflections on plate glass. Or through double exposure. Now Lucien takes us off the set entirely. The live people get the breaks. They get to use the sets. We ghosts live in a black world apart. The camera reaches out and puts us in the set, transparent, on the screen—but here I am, now, shunted aside.

I have to act as if I'm on the set where I'll be in the picture, and I have to talk to other people in the set—but I'm acting in front of a black backdrop, and I'm saying lines to people I'm not looking at. I'm talking into space. I can see what they're doing because Lucien, my friend, has put up a mirror. Ever try acting a scene talking to people who aren't there?

* * *

I SUPPOSE it's a great idea, Lucien's. He has a prism that reaches out and picks up me, the ghost, and sets me down again on the celluloid right beside the live people. Uses one camera—the trick's in the lenses. A great idea, but it's getting me down.

I've become so accustomed to ghost-talk that I can carry on a conversation without looking at the person I'm talking to. I'm looking away from you, see but we can talk right on. It's a ghastly habit I've picked up. I go home at night and I kiss my wife over here, see, when she's standing over there.

A ghost? Time was, last year, when I was so ill I thought I was a ghost. That's when I talked about retiring from pictures. Feel fine now, so I mean to keep on working. No more long-term contract, though. I'll do just two pictures a year—one for Uncle Sam, one for me. I'm doing this one for Uncle Sam. Baxter was a top money-earner in 1938, as you may have read in the papers. So he gets sick in the spring of '39, and can't work—and he's got to do something to pay tax on that top money. Sold all his stocks and bonds, and this picture will pay up the rest. Not complaining—I owe it.

* * *

QUIT? After 27 years in the business, I couldn't quit. But this picture winds up my contract. I want to have something to say about my pictures after this. This script is fine—picture ought to be good. But even so, I think I've been around long enough to deserve the courtesy of being consulted. Maybe I wouldn't change anything, but I'd like to be asked. Why, even the hat I wear has to be okayed by Zanuck.

Think I'll practice my magic. Great hobby, magic. A lot of people think it's childish, but you've got to have something to take your mind off your work.

Oh, excuse me. Got to go into my black-out again.

SCANDINAVIANS LOOKING AHEAD, SEE HARDSHIPS

Neutrality and Unity Remain Watchwords as Nations Try To Stay Peaceful.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the last of six dispatches on war-time conditions in Europe.

By HAROLD A. PETERS
(UP Staff Correspondent)

COPENHAGEN, Denmark—Neutrality and unity.

Those are the watchwords today in a fearful Scandinavia that was only partly relieved when immediate danger of a new north European war front was ended by peace in Finland.

Norway, Sweden and Denmark look forward to the coming months as apprehensively as multilated Finland, not at all certain that their long struggle to maintain a neutral position will be successful at the climax of European conflict. But one result of the red army invasion of Finland has been to bring more sharply into focus the long-debated question of a United northern front.

Sweden, Norway and Finland have agreed to a conference to negotiate a defensive alliance designed to keep their territories intact or to face future dangers together. Denmark, a mere peninsula jutting off Germany, is too vulnerable to enter such an alliance.

In addition to neutrality worries, Sweden, Norway and Denmark view with alarm the cumulative effects of the European war on their trade and shipping, which is essential to their existence. They look for severe hardships in a long struggle. Finland is concerned with reconstruction and the chance to rebuild her shattered life free from the further menace of war.

Life for the average man is reasonably normal so far, however. There has yet been no appreciable food shortage. The cost of living has bone up between five and eight per cent, but wages have been increased as provided by law, affording some compensation.

Rationing has been applied so far chiefly to imported goods such as coffee, tea, coal and benzine. Denmark, which is a sugar producer, rations it to help Norway and Sweden, and also has fixed the price of flour to prevent profiteering.

Short on Coal.

The unusually severe winter caused the rationing of coal, especially in Denmark, which has lost nine coal steamers at sea since the start of the war and cannot use hydroelectric power, as Sweden and Norway do.

The chief concern of Scandinavia is over shipping losses, which exceeded that of belligerent Great Britain by nearly 100,000 tons in the first six months of the war.

By countries, Norway lost 50 ships, Sweden 32 and Denmark 21. Nevertheless, trade with both belligerents continued at about the same level as before the war, although the total cost of imports rose because of higher prices and freight rates and the increased stocks needed for defense. Currencies remained stable against the dollar, although the gold and foreign exchange reserve has been depleted.

Along with its neutrality policy, Sweden has made extensive preparations for passive resistance in case of need. She inaugurated a wide system of air raid precautions, building hundreds of bomb proof shelter in congested areas, as well as strengthening the coastal and northern defenses.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, MARCH 16, 1940.

Drive carefully tomorrow—and take the other fellow's word for it if he says you're too drunk to drive.

It may be hoped that the forthcoming radio version of "The Rains Came" will not be so realistic as to induce static.

In case you should ever want to mention it in a speech, the full name of the Nazi organization is National Sozialistische Deutsche Arbeiter Partei—but you'll probably be satisfied to let bad enough alone.

Warmer World In Prospect

WHATEVER impressions may be gained from occasional return of a "long, hard winter," such as this, scientists contend that the world is getting warmer—and that the earth is just about halfway through the great ice age.

Explorer Donald B. MacMillan, who has looked things over up north, says the warming up process is to continue for another 40,000 years—so cheer up.

There was a time, in fact probably several times, when the whole northern part of the United States was frozen up and covered with an ice sheet a mile or two high. That sheet has now retreated to Greenland, which is a big glacier covering 500,000 square miles and shedding 500,000,000,000 cubic feet of ice into the sea each year. That's where North Atlantic icebergs come from.

Eventually MacMillan says, that vast icehouse will all be melted away and the whole north will be warm and pleasant. And then the Canadians will be in luck. They'll have a livable climate clear up to the Arctic Ocean, and they can mine coal veins 25 feet thick within 600 miles of the North Pole, laid down long ago when tropical vegetation grew there luxuriantly.

Greatest American Problem

THERE is still a vast amount of poverty in the world. But our generation is probably unique in this respect—that, apparently for the first time in recorded history, we no longer regard poverty as inevitable.

Most people in this country, at least, even with the vast amount of unemployment and hardship and public relief, believe that a remedy can be found. There is no inclination to sit back and regard the lack of work and self-support as something divinely appointed. In spite of baffling defeats, it is considered a challenge to the intelligence and decency of modern civilization.

Certainly with the tremendous advances already made in industrial and agricultural methods Americans are convinced of their ability to produce enough for everybody. As a nation, we do not produce anywhere near all that we are capable of producing. Industry and agriculture actually find it necessary, a large part of the time, to hold back production, for the curious reason that we are not able to pass the products around. We have yet to find a practical way to distribute things where they are most needed, without throwing the whole economic machine out of gear. This is our leading problem.

Neutrality Also Costly

SWITZERLAND is described as the "most neutral of all the neutrals," yet the war so far has cost that independent little nation $1,000,000 a day. That is about twenty-five cents apiece for all its inhabitants.

A part of the Swiss defense force has been under arms since the war began and everything is ready to complete mobilization almost on an instant's notice, if it becomes necessary. Blind men are trained for the aircraft detection service. Deaf men serve as ordinary soldiers. Women act as ambulance drivers, nurses and so on.

Canada, an active belligerent, is said to be spending only a little more than $1,000,000 a day on the war now, though that rate may be stepped up as time goes on.

Neutrality in Europe is no easy or inexpensive job. Yet the neutrals cling to that status in spite of hardship, because belligerency would be worse.

Another National Park

THE president's signature on the authorizing legislation has made possible another national park in California, ending a sixty-year fight toward that goal.

Kings Canyon National Park, adjacent to the Sequoia National Park, covers 454,000 acres of some of the wildest and most beautiful scenery in the United States. Part of it is unspoiled wilderness.

Its canyons, though somewhat like those of Yosemite, are different in detail. Their walls are loftier and more rugged. Tehipite Dome is higher than the famous El Capitan.

Thus the national park system grows, preserving from private exploitation and opening for public enjoyment areas of great scenic beauty. There are more than 19,000,000 acres now held in this way for today's Americans and for posterity. Recreation facilities are provided, with due regard to keeping undisturbed certain bits of natural wilderness.

New parks in the East, Shenandoah and the Great Smoky, had the most visitors last year. They lie in a populous part of the country and are newly opened. But there are national or state parks and forests in every section of the country and the public shows approval and appreciation by steadily increasing its use of them.

Agency Service Essential

OCCASIONAL argument is heard that life insurance should be sold on an "over the counter" basis, in order to eliminate the agent's commission.

While such an idea may be superficially appealing it doesn't stand analysis, for buying life insurance is a quite different matter from buying other commodities, and comparatively few people, if left to their own initiative, would start out to find a life insurance agency, walk in and say, "I want to be insured."

Probably a considerable majority of present policy-holders needed urging before they took out their first policy—and it should also be remembered that there are many different types of policies intended to meet various needs, problems and ambitions.

Life insurance may be regarded as highly specialized salesmanship, in which the agent is also a counsellor, competent to analyze your needs and to advise you as to the form of protection that best fits your particular case.

Do not minimize the importance of the trained life insurance agent, or feel that the service he performs does not justify the compensation he receives.

Thrift is still a commendable trait. You are to save money so as to give it to those who don't save theirs.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—It is interesting to watch John Barrymore play to street crowds while pretending to be unaware of their existence. As you know, the day of the real matinee idol in New York has long since past. We haven't had one since Leslie Howard was a young man just over from London, in the old Berkeley Square days, so to speak. But now and then some actor takes the fancy, and when his presence is noised about a considerable crowd gathers.

This year it's Barrymore again, just as it was in the days of his Greek-coin youth, and on any fair matinee day you will see a couple of hundred people on the curb at that iron-gated alley next to the Belasco theater on 4th street. The crowd knows that if it stands there long enough it will see Barrymore in street clothes.

* * *

THIS usually happens about 2:15 in the afternoon. A long black car rolls up to the curb. Elaine Barrie, his wife, a black-headed girl who is nicer looking than her pictures, gets out first and bolts up the alley, but no one pays any attention to her.

Then John and his manager get out. He has a homburg at a sort of decided angle on his classic brow. He has on a heavy, belted, below-the-knees overcoat. His pants could stand a pressing, but as he only earns slightly less than $5,000 a week, the crowd doesn't hold this against The Profile.

On these occasions Barrymore is very gay and jovial. From his manner you would think that he and his manager were all alone on a deserted street. But he suddenly thinks of something very funny to say. So he throws his arm around his manager's shoulder as they move into the alley Barrymore makes gestures with his free hand while confiding some piece of intimate gossip in a loud stage voice to his friend. This pretense is maintained until the stage door shuts them from view and then Barrymore, for all I know, slumps down into a chair to rest.

Reason? Well, that's the actor of it. That's just a wee bit of stage alley Hamlet that takes place every matinee days in New York.

EXACT whereabouts of Lowell Thomas' office in Rockefeller Center must be a deep secret. He comes in every day and gets on the elevators—and disappears. The elevator boys are no help either. Ask them where Thomas is and they say, "Who, me? I dunno from nuthin." They don't, neither.

We don't know how it is elsewhere, but around this neighborhood the cut-rate drug stores aren't any cheaper than the pharmacys. Tube for tube, the toothpastes and shaving creams all have the same price. Us, we use 49-cent cream. What do you use?

You can win bets by arguing that rubber and wax aren't used in phonograph records. There isn't an ounce of either in any records on the market today. The stuff is mostly resin and shellac, wadded into a biscuit and then spread out.

Timely Editorial

Maple Syrup Weather.

Weather like we have been having lately, with cold, freezing nights and warmer days puts thoughts of maple syrup and maple sugar candy into the heads of people hereabouts.

There is no taste like, or comparable to, maple. People who for one reason or another have been denied the pleasure of becoming addicted to it in childhood frequently find it strange in adulthood. But to anyone who has been reared on buckwheat cakes (the kind with the buck left in) and maple syrup nothing short of nectar tastes as good. When the sap drips into the buckets and the sugar camps open is a time for rejoicing in Ohio.

Maple syrup is one of those good things of life that tastes of the freshness and tanginess of outdoors and brings to the palate the elusiveness of early springtime.—Columbus Dispatch.

The Great Unbalancing Act.

Subtle Spreading of Dishonesty

By WALTER E. SPAHR
Professor of Economics, New York University.

WHEN the history of this period is written, it seems clear that future historians must give considerable space to the extent to which forthrightness and honesty were thrown overboard by high government officials and leaders of thought and movements, not only in countries regimented by dictatorial governments but also in the United States.

These historians must also point out how this dishonesty and lack of respect for personal integrity came to be regarded as a species of smartness, rather than something to be condemned, and how it filtered down to, and through, the great mass of people and converted them, to an unprecedented extent for the United States, into cynical truth-twisters, and outright liars.

It is quite probable that practically all the high officials of our federal and most of our other governments do not in the ordinary sense do the things for which they can easily be convicted.

They are playing a bigger and what they apparently regard as a safer, game—safer for themselves. They are playing it with billions of dollars of the people's money and through the employment of tactics that characterize the methods of dictators—the chief differences being in the indirectness with which they are used.

* * *

THE great majority of radicals and self-styled "liberals" chuckel over all these tactics, no matter how reprehensible they may be, and say it is all a question of being smart. The great mass of people probably do not understand what has happened and is happening.

So long as the shekels are tossed out to them, they seem to be satisfied, and that is precisely the device that the new "liberals" count upon being effective with them—that, and the constant reiteration that the New Dealers, and they only, are the friends of the downtrodden.

The self-styled "liberals" in this country who, not so long ago, condemned regimentation and dictatorial government, now defend them at every turn. The point is that it is their "leader" who is moving toward dictatorial government.

For example, just as these "liberals" found no difficulty in defending the attack on the Supreme Court, the attempts to purge certain congressmen, and so on, they find no difficulty in defending the fraud, being perpetrated on the states which have provisions for direct primaries, involved in the placing of New Deal dummies on these primary ballots. Such "liberals" condemn the methods used by Hitler to keep himself in power, but not this. There is a distinction here—but it is a distinction without a difference!

Again and again, these "liberals" have convicted themselves of fundamental dishonesty, of willingness to condone a species of crookedness which they regard as smartness and foxiness.

Westbrook Pegler recently put his finger directly on this rotten spot in our social fabric when he pointed out the common tendency of self-styled "liberals" since the beginning of the New Deal, to show a dogged and insulting refusal to look at facts, to engage in arrogant attempts to read cautious people out of the Democratic party, to reveal a willful dishonesty, and to sink to such levels that truth to them becomes a silly affectation fit only for stupid people.

* * *

A LARGE number of real liberals —if the term "liberal" means anything respectable at all, anymore—have not been able to stomach this slide toward personal and social degradation, and have separated themselves from the self-anointed "progressives."

Others are suffering humiliation but are quietly hanging on in the hope that things may in some unexpected way take a turn for the better. But the greater proportion of "liberals" seem glad to continue in the fold, and evidently are willing to scuttle their self-respect and forego the respect of their fellowmen. These people can change their principles and shift their position on economics, government, and ethics any day in the week—whenever word or act in Washington makes this seem expedient of them.

The only principle they have is that of following "their leader." They wait to hear what he says, then they rush about madly to justify it. They act as though they have no independent thoughts of their own on which they dare rely—they are simply Charlie McCarthys speaking with the master's voice.

It seems very possible that the fake liberalism which has been so rampant in this country in recent years has cost the people of this nation far more than the billions of wasted public money; it has eaten deeply into the integrity of a large proportion of the American people.

Listen, World!

Respect Your Mistakes!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

RESPECT your mistakes! Does that statement startle you a bit? You've respected your successes; been proud of them. But it has never occurred to you to be proud of your mistakes, has it?

No! You've hated your mistakes. The memory of them fills you with regret and humiliation. You wish you need never think of them again. You try to cover them up with excuses and evasions. But try as you may, you can't forget them. Like a secret poison they persist in your consciousness—destroying your self-respect and self-confidence.

Don't let them! Don't let them weaken and waste you for another hour! Drag your mistakes out into the open and face them bravely. They are an important part of your life. They are as important as your successes. They have taught you as much about life—perhaps even more.

So stop trying to hide or run away from your mistakes. Face them with respect. Study them. Discover the reasons for them.

Oddly enough, most of the motives underlying your mistakes were fine, though the results were miserably muddled. You didn't mean to blunder. You knew you were taking a chance but you felt it was a wise thing to do—a brave and decent thing.

Then, suddenly, everything went wrong—and everybody blamed you—condemned you, as if you were a deliberate criminal.

You long to cry—"But can't you see that I didn't mean to do wrong? Can't you understand that I really wanted to do a fine thing, even though it was unusual?"

But no one will listen. Their sneers jam the words down your throat. You grow furious at the injustice.

Presently you find yourself despising your mistake as much as they despise it. You vow you'll never try to do a decent thing again.

And so that act, which might have made you a stronger, prouder person—even though it failed—becomes a hidden humiliation, crippling your progress.

STOP IT! Stop being sorry because you dared to rebel, dared to experiment. Stop being bitter because you fell short of your dreams.

Respect that mistake! Respect yourself because you had the courage to try, even though you didn't succeed. Be proud because you tried—and go on trying. Don't let the jeers of smaller, smugger souls break your confidence in yourself, your contract with yourself.

"But sometimes," you say, "my motives weren't so good and I know it."

If there's cussedness in you, the worst thing you can possibly do is to try and hide it or ignore it. Drag it out! Look it over! Measure the extent of its menace as you'd measure the menace of any adversary. Face it and lick it! Nine times out of ten you'll find that even your worst cussedness is simply based on fear. Face fear, and it will vanish.

Face everything in yourself—good or bad, flattering or humiliating. Face everything in yourself and respect everything in yourself. Say to yourself:

"I've made a mess of things. But I didn't mean to make a mess of things. I was honestly trying to do something bigger and better. Then I'm not going to despise myself because I failed. I'm not going to spoil my life with remorse and embarrassment. Perhaps I'm a failure in the eyes of the world; but I won't be a failure in my own eyes. I DARED TO LIVE AND I'M PROUD OF IT!"

'Droppers-In' Who Steal Your Time

Time, that most fleeting of all our treasures, is the one treasure which is most subject to theft from our friends. People who wouldn't think of stealing a silver spoon or borrowing one's car without authority will drop in for a visit without ascertaining their host or hostesses' plans or desires.

Such visits, according to Lydia Hewes, who steps out and speaks her mind on the subject in the March issue of Good Housekeeping, are an imposition and a trial on friendship.

The housewife who has managed to steal an hour from a busy day full of children, cleaning and cooking to read a few pages of a new book; the husband and wife who settle down to a comfortable at-home discussion of plans; the bachelor or single woman who is yearning for a free time to listen to new records, are all at the mercy of dropper-inners.

No matter how hospitable persons may be, there are bound to be times in their lives when they have an imperative desire to be alone or to carry on with their own activities.

Some women get around the pestiferous problem by designating certain "at home" days. If people want to drop in then, they are welcome; if they choose another time, they have no right to complain.

Daily Bible Thought

Then said Jesus to those Jews which believed on him, If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed; And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free.—John 8:31.

Summary of Week's Happenings

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

LAST FALL, after snatching half of prostrate Poland from under Nazi noses, Russia swiftly covered the right flank of her new salient into western Europe by extracting military bases from Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania. From Finland she then demanded:

1. A strip of the Karelian Isthmus wide enough to put Finnish artillery beyond range of Leningrad;
2. Five Gulf of Finland islands commanding the approach to Leningrad;
3. The right to install Russian artillery on the southern Finnish coast;
4. The right to lease and fortify Hanko, a promontory on the southwestern Finnish coast;
5. A strip of northern Finnish territory adjacent to Russia's ice-free Arctic port of Murmansk;
6. Demilitarization of Finnish-Russian frontiers.

In return, Russia offered 2,134 square miles of timberland to fatten Finland's "waist-line." When the Finns refused to swap, the war began—Nov. 30, 1939.

By this week the Red army had won, at a terrific cost of lives, most of the land Red diplomats originally demanded. (Major exception: Hanko.)

And a four-man Finnish delegation headed by Premier Risto Ryti had gone to Moscow "to find out whether possibilities exist for a cessation of hostilities."

'No Faith In Promises.'

Tuesday night the treaty was signed, giving Russia virtually all she asked last fall and a lot besides:

The entire Karelian Isthmus, including the Mannerheim line and the shell-pocked city of Viipuri; all the shores of Lake Ladoga; various islands in the Gulf of Finland; a 30-year lease on Hanko as a military and naval pase; a broad swath of eastern Finland; parts of two peninsulas on the Arctic ocean; a railroad to be built across Finland this year to link Murmansk with Sweden; permission to operate an airline across northern Finland to Norway; new trade and non-aggression pacts.

In return, the Finns got peace and the promise of $120,000 a year rent for Hanko.

"The peace will be a heavy one," Finland's foreign minister told his countrymen. But they had no choice, he said, because they were running out of weapons and "had no faith in the promises of others." As to the Allies' offer to send soldiers, he explained:

"The only possible route was through Norway and Sweden, who refused to let the troops through. This refusal proved an unconquerable obstacle. . . . The surrender is not our fault—it is the fault of our being forsaken by our fellow democracies."

He talked of a defensive alliance with Sweden and Norway to guarantee the new situation.

At Home

Norris vs. G-Men.

Last month, shortly after Robert H. Jackson was promoted to U. S. attorney general, agents of J. Edgar Hoover's FBI seized a dozen Detroit citizens on stale charges of recruiting soldiers for the Spanish Loyalist army. Jackson promptly dismissed the charges, initiated during the administration of his predecessor, Frank Murphy, now a supreme court justice, but declared he found "nothing to justify any charge of misconduct" on the part of the G-Men.

This week Nebraska's Senator George W. Norris renewed the accusation that Hoover's men had made the arrests at an "unholy hour" and had used "third-degree methods" in questioning the prisoners. "These Detroit cases are only examples," he wrote Jackson. "They are only illustrations that seem to me to bear out the fact that the FBI needs a strong, restraining hand to keep it in bounds." He demanded an "impartial investigation."

Next day a senate committee, without directly criticizing the FBI, recommended a probe into wire-tapping "whether by government agencies or private individuals."

Protestants' Preference?

The U. S. hasn't had an official representative at the Vatican since 1868, when congress forced the recall of American Minister Rufus King by abolishing the appropriation for maintaining a legation there. And Mr. Roosevelt, in assigning retired steel magnate Myron C. Taylor to the Holy See last Christmas, carefully designated him as only the president's personal contact-man with Pope Pius in "parallel endeavors for peace."

Some protestants have found fault with that appointment, nevertheless, as a possible first step toward re-establishment of formal diplomatic relations. They were rebuked this week by Archbishop Francis J. Spellman of New York. "It is disconcerting," said he, "to hear criticism that implies a preference to have men continue to slay one another rather than have peace through the cooperation of a Catholic and an Episcopalian."

* * *

Men and Machines.

Chairman of the Temporary National Economic committee, a group of congressmen and federal officials who have been X-raying America's economic system, is Democratic Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney, of Wyoming. This week he introduced in congress a bill to (1) tax employers who make "more than average" use of machines and (2) pay a bonus to those who use a greater ratio of manpower.

Abroad

That Other War.

A tired Japanese army reported this week it had "decisively smashed" Chinese forces near Swatow — then added, strangely, that it did not "occupy territory." Chinese said the Japanese had been repulsed. That the Japanese army was not moving forward, both versions agreed.

Foreign experts in China were wondering whether it could even stand still. Within a few months, they predicted, the erstwhile swaggering Japanese would be backing out of some parts of south and central China.

* * *

Dreamers In Geneva.

Like Polish exiles, with their absentee administration in France, anti-Soviet exiles from the southern Russian states of Georgia, Azerbaijan and Armenia have for years maintained refugee "governments" in Switzerland. Their dream of freeing their homelands from Red rule was revived when the U. S. S. R. was expelled from the League of Nations in December. This week it was linked with rumors from the Near East of an impending Allied drive into Russia's rich trans-Caucasian oil fields. "We have reason to believe," the Georgian nationalist "premier" told newsmen in Geneva, "that we may soon get Allied support."

Quotes

Senator Sherman Minton: "The curse of democracy is that you cannot get citizens interested enough in politics to get out to the polls and vote."

Justice Francis Martin: "The bar must clean its house. Otherwise the profession will be held responsible by the public for incalculable harm caused by the activities of incompetent and unfit lawyers."

Politics

Book Note.

Political parties' money-raising schemes include the sale of national convention souvenir books. In 1936 the Democrats thus cleaned up more than half a million dollars. GOP Chairman John Hamilton charged this week, largely from corporations otherwise barred from contributing to campaign funds. So, saying, he announced the Republicans would issue no convention book this year—and added a hope that the Democrats would likewise abandon this "subterfuge." Democratic chief James A. Farley discounted Hamilton's figures and rejected his suggestion.

* * *

Third-Term Talk.

Clue - of - the - week: Elizabeth Henderson, 17, of Stamford, Conn., a cousin of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, lives at the White House during the winter and attends a private girls' school just across the Potomac in Virginia. This week 'twas whispered she had told classmates she wouldn't be back next fall because the Roosevelts would be moving in mid-term.

People

Legion Comes of Age.

The American Legion, organized in Paris after the World war, now has 750,000 members (as compared with a peak of 1,050,000 in 1931). The average Legionnaire is a man of 47 with a wife and two children. This week the Legion celebrated its 21st birthday with a drive to persuade industry that men of his age make steadier workers than do younger fellows. "Unemployment," said National Commander Raymond J. Kelly, of Detroit, "brings about the more ready acceptance of alien isms."

* * *

Hale's Farewell.

Zachariah Chandler sat in the U. S. senate from 1857 to 1875; his son-in-law, Eugene Hale, from 1881 to 1911. And Hale's son Frederick, a Maine Republican, has been there since 1917. Next January that record of family service will end. For the current Senator Hale, a bachelor of 65, announced this week his present term would be his last.

* * *

Signs of the Times.

1. Texas cobblers, in convention at Fort Worth this week decided to call themselves, henceforth, "shoetricians."

2. The Washington office phone number of Ohio's Senator Robert A. Taft, candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, is ME-1940.

derson, Newark, (D), former Licking county representative to the general assembly.

The race for the nominations for state senator from the 27th-29th district centered at Lorain with five or the six candidates from that county.

Those who filed their petitions with the Lorain county board of elections were: The incumbent, P. H. Rogers, Grafton (R); Wallace W. Barnhill, Nankin (R; Joseph Jameson (R) former Lorain postmaster; William F. Hurley, Lorain (D) former state senator from the district; Maurice R. Brown (D), Lorain councilman, and Jack Garver (D) Lorain attorney.

Holding the spotlight in this county will be the race for nominations for sheriff.

Chief Deputy Frank Robinson and Neil E. Ruhl have filed for the Democratic nomination, while on the Republican side are Berlyn McCready, Frank Deringer, Ralph A. Schad, jr., Fred A. Stecker, O. J. Davidson, all of Mansfield, and A. Ray Frye, Lexington.

In addition there will be both Republican and Democratic candidates and alternates to the party's national conventions and state central committeemen and committeewomen.

Also appearing on the ballot in each of the county's 91 precincts will be candidates for precinct committeemen, one to be elected by each party in each precinct. These will total upwards to 300 in the county.

Slates of county delegates and alternates to the parties' state conventions—13 on the G. O. P. side and 11 each on the Democratic ticket—will not appear on the ballot since a new state law permits them to be left off in case no other entries are filed in opposition to those picked by the party several weeks ago.

On the Republican side, Gov. John W. Bricker, who received his party's nomination for governor without opposition in 1936 and 1938, is opposed by Addison Q. Thatcher, Toledo city councilman and former mayor.

Six candidates have no opposition. The Republicans are Lieut. Gov. Paul M. Herbert, State Treasurer Don H. Ebright and Atty. Gen. Thomas J. Herbert, seeking renomination, and Gilbert Bettman of Cincinnati, candidate for the Jan. 2 term of the Ohio supreme court. The Democrats are Clarence H. Knisley of Bainbridge, candidate for nomination for state treasurer, and Judge Charles B. Zimmerman of Springfield, seeking renomination to the supreme court, Jan. 1 term.

A knotty question was posed for Secretary of State Earl Griffith when four Democrats and three Republicans filed as candidates-at-large for the state central committee of their party. All the committee members heretofore have been elected from the 22 congressional districts.

Griffith will delay putting the seven on the primary ballot pending a study of the question.

Europe," Dr. Leebrick said. "But now when there is more freedom we are in a period of building schools.

"We adapt our educational systems to our needs as a people. Where there is slavery, little education is needed, because educated people will not long be slaves. In a dictatorship, one man determines how far education can go; society becomes stereotyped.

"Education in a democracy must be free financially so that the mass of children can afford it. There must be freedom of speech in the classroom, freedom of assembly and of publication, and freedom to experiment to find better ways of doing things.

"In this country public schools are free through high school and that fact alone is one of the most remarkable things in the history of the world. There was never anything like it.

"Back of this building was a dream that young people might have a better opportunity than we had—that we will find a way to an even better society than we have now.

"This building represents the peak of cooperation, the kind of cooperation we need to realize our ideals and preserve our democracy," he asserted.

Traces District's History.

Supt. of Schools W. L. Miller who introduced Dr. Leebrick and greeted the audience, traced briefly the history of the John Simpson school district which was founded by the Mansfield town council in April, 1846.

"It was known then as district No. 3, comprising the southern part of the present John Simpson district and it had a population of 300 boys and girls from six to 21 years old," he said.

"In September, 1846, the board of education asked for a tax levy for $600 to build a new school. The levy was passed and the school was erected, marking the beginning of the progress in the city schools that has led to this building.

"You are not guests here tonight, but partners in this enterprise. We congratulate you as partners on the part you have played in this project."

Dr. John S. Hattery, vice president of the board of education, presented the key to the building to Principal Harry J. Dotson, who presided during the program.

The silver key, about a foot long, "is a symbol in unlocking the hearts and minds of the present generation of school children and those to come," Dr. Hattery said.

Dotson accepted the key as "a symbol of success, an added responsibility, closer co-ordinating the schools and parents."

The official John Simpson flag, bearing the school's name in white letters on an orange background, was presented to the school by Mrs. Louis J. Ott, granddaughter of John Simpson. The flag was a gift of Mrs. Charles H. Keating, daughter of the educator.

"May it stand for good fellowship, good scholarship, and good sportsmanship," Mrs. Ott asserted.

First Auditorium, Flag.

Thanking Mrs. Ott and Mrs. Keating for the gift, James Bierly, a John Simpson pupil, said "We are doubly thankful, for this is the first time we have had an aduitorium as well as a school flag."

Mrs. Carl Spangler, representing the Jared Mansfield chapter, D. A. R., gave the school a large American flag.

In reply to Mrs. Spangler, Katherine Ann Fensch, a John Simpson pupil, said the pupils would remember that the "red is for the valor with which our forefathers fought for their freedom, the white for purity, and the blue for the justness of a free land."

To test the acoustics of the auditorium which had been criticized following a Community Players' presentation in the hall Wednesday night, Principal Dotson had the public address system turned off while he introduced a number of guests.

Persons in the balcony and those in most of the downstairs sections said they could hear him well. Others on the main floor, however, reported a little difficulty in hearing him.

Lester Redding, of Redding and Associates, architects for the building, was in the auditorium. He said he could find no serious defect in the acoustics and "certainly nothing that cannot be corrected."

Redding asserted he believed that minor adjustments might be required on the stage, which he thought was the source of any trouble there might be.

Guests introduced by the principal included:

Lester Redding and O. H. Matthews, architects for the building; Robert Hawkins of Cleveland, son of William Hawkins, the general contractor on the project; Thomas Reed, representing the regional PWA office in Chicago; H. W. Arlin, Dr. Hattery, W. C. Mead, Harold Bruce, and A. H. Fankhauser, board of education members; John H. Eisaman, board clerk; O. J. Davidson, superintendent in charge of construction of the new building; Mrs. A. J. Reynolds, granddaughter of John Simpson, and Margaret Reynolds, his great-granddaughter; Jesse Beer, principal of Senior high school; Glenn G. Rohleder, principal of Johnny Appleseed junior high school, new companion structure to the John Simpson building; Mrs. Don Rudolph, president of the John Simpson P. T. A., and Mrs. Milo Hieber, president of the Mansfield P. T. A. council.

The invocation was by Rev. H. S. Garnes, pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran church, and the benediction by Rev. E. G. Corwin, pastor of First Methodist church.

The combined junior high school orchestras, directed by S. K. Jorgensen, played three numbers.

Throughout the afternoon and evening teachers, administrators, and pupils served as guides for the thousands of visitors who viewed the new school. Bouquets of flowers decorated most of the rooms in the building and the stage of the auditorium.

Although the building has been in use since Jan. 29, the gymnasium, library, and home economics rooms were completed just in time for yesterday's "open house."

Visitors probably were impressed most by the huge gymnasium with its gleaming floor, the theater-like auditorium with its tan and bronze walls and green and gold curtain and draperies, and the completeness of the home economics rooms which have all the modern conveniences of a latest-model kitchen and living room.

Finland Plans for New Fortifications.

HELSINKI—(AP)—Finland will begin immediately to fortify her newly-narrowed frontiers and to reorganize her battered army despite the non-aggression clause in her peace treaty with Soviet Russia, informed quarters declared today.

There will be no general demobilization of the army, except for certain classes which will be released to help with civil reconstruction work, these sources said.

The Finnish government attitude toward the future was suggested by Premier Risto Ryti, who told the Diet last night that the nation would go forward "with a sword in one hand and a trowel in the other."

Addressing the Finnish Diet just before it approved the treaty by a 145-to-3 vote last night, the sad-eyed premier declared:

"In the same way as we waged war alone, we concluded peace alone. Only the future can show whether we acted wisely and rightly.

"Our country, like the whole of Europe, indeed, the whole of western civilization, still is in the greatest danger. No one can say what tomorrow will bring."

The Diet, except for three members of the Swedish peoples party who voted no and nine legislators who are absent with the army, voted solidly for the pact.

The supreme Soviet of the U. S. S. R. meets March 29 to approve the treaty and possibly decide on government of the territory acquired from Finland. This includes the Karelian isthmus, Viipuri, areas in northeastern Finland, part of the Arctic coast, and, by lease, the Hanko peninsula in southwestern Finland.

Withdrawal of Finnish troops and civilians from the ceded areas is under way and will continue into April according to a schedule appended to the treaty.

Of Finland's struggle, the premier commented:

"We were given an abundance of sympathy, but no effective help from any direction. We received no help in form of manpower in actual fact, merely a few reinforced battalions, mostly from Sweden."

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, March 17.

SUNDAY'S horoscope hold testimonies of rather peculiar experiences. These may have either occult, spiritual or revolutionary angles which are difficult to interpret. Personal research or group work ot a humane or reformatory social nature is indicated. Higher and subtle forces and creative urges are involved, but in all be wise with superiors and wary of deception.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of experiences out of the routine, with activities in unfamiliar avenues. New, original or unique projects may thrive, especially if in co-operation with groups or associates of high social and reformatory ideals. But be tactful with superiors and alert to subtlety, intrigue and duplicity.

A child born on this day may be blessed with original talents and faculties of an intellectual and creative expression. It may progress in some novel lines, despite opposition or lack of support.

For Monday, March 18.

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for a succesful, progressive and pleasant day, with much stirring to promote good fortune and personal well being. The young and adventurous, with flares of genius and originality, are under excellent sway for achievement and gratification, with romance, possibly matrimony, in the forefront. Elders and feminine influence are propitious.

Those whose birthday it is are assured a year of promise and achievement, with personal gratifications and pleasures. There will be success through originality and ingenuity, with intellectual as well as creative inspiration, elders and superiors supporting. Romance and emotional adventures are likely, with the young having especial significance and expression. But shun extravagance and over-enthusiasm.

A child born on this day may have great versatility and creative ability of a scientific and intellectual nature. It may be kindly, humane, generous, popular and gay.

Early Easter Date Will Increase Popularity of Furs

Fur fashions are going to have more interest than usual in the 1940 Easter Parade because of its early date. This New Yorker wraps her chalk-striped blue suit in a twin pelt scarf of platinum foxes (the first of which originated in Norway).

A boat-shaped hat, and clusters of clovers, daffodils and daisies—all made of pique—combine to spell "Easter bonnet" for this New Yorker. Walter Florell designs it and wraps it in a misty white veil that trails down its side to the shoulder of a blue crepe frock.

Fish Dishes For Coming Lenten Days

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

We think it's high time for some new fish recipes. Those who observe Lent have their hands full each year to whip up nourishing and tasty meatless dishes.

Stuffed Haddock is very good and is not an expensive fish. Make the stuffing with two cups soft bread crumbs, two pimientos (chopped,) one small onion (minced,) and one-fourth cup diced celery cooked in two tablespoons butter until soft. Add salt and pepper to taste. Add milk until the stuffing is moist enough to hold together. Then stuff fish, sew up and put in oiled pan. Brush fish with fat. Bake fish in oven, allowing about 20 minutes for each pound. Serves four.

With Celery Sauce.

Haddock is tasty when served with a tangy celery sauce. Boil haddock in fish stock. Serve with celery sauce. Cook diced celery in water to cover until almost tender. Drain, saving water. Add equal amount milk and water. To each cup liquid use two tablespoons flour. Melt butter, add flour. When boiling add milk slowly. Cook. Season with salt and peper. Add cooked celery. Pour sauce over fish. Garnish with celery leaves. Serves four.

If there is a cup of cooked fish left over, use it as an ingredient for a tasty dish. Rice, Egg and Fish Loaf is one such dish. For five servings, use one cup cold boiled rice, three hard cooked eggs, one cup cooped fish (flaked,) teaspoon minced onion, one slightly-beaten egg, three thin slices bacon (cut into bits,) salt and pepper to taste, one-half cup milk. Butter a baking mold. Fry bacon lightly. Add onion, then fish and rice. Combine milk and egg and add to first mixture. Season to taste. Slice one of the eggs in thin rings and place around the side of the mold for a garnish, add rest of cooked eggs to mixture. Press into the mold and bake in 350° F. for 30 minutes. Turn out on a hot platter and serve with tomato sauce. Serves four.

Nourishing Dish.

Casserole of Fish is a nourishing tasty dish. Here is our favorite recipe. We make it with four ounces mushrooms (sliced,) one medium onion (finely chopped,) four tablespoons butter, three tablespoons butter, three tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca, one and one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, two teaspoons sugar, two cups flaked cooked haddock or cod and three cups canned tomatoes. Saute mushrooms, celery and onion in butter until tender. Combine with tapioca and remaining ingredients in order given. Turn into greased casserole and bake in 425° F. oven 25 minutes, stirring twice during first 10 minutes of baking. Place unbaked biscuits on top of fish mixture after it has baked 10 minutes; return to oven. Bake 10 minutes longer or until biscuits are browned. Serves eight.

HAVE LUNCHEON.

Mrs. I. M. Palmer entertained with a 1 o'clock luncheon at the Women's Club yesterday for 10 members and two guests, Mrs. Mary Brown, Columbus, and Mrs. P. W. Backenstos, of the Priscilian club. The next meeting will be March 29 with Mrs. Sidney L. Palmer at the club.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

Mary looked around her furtively as we emerged from her room, and I knew that she was fearful of Olina's presence. The secret of our projected last rehearsal might well be endangered if Olina should see where we were going.

But the corridor was deserted, and when I closed behind us the door leading to the kitchen wing, both Mary and I drew deep breaths of relief.

But Katie's breathing was anything but relieved as she flung open the door of her sitting room when she heard our footsteps in the hall. She was almost gasping with the haste of her movements, and her cheeks were highly flushed. "Coom in, coom in!" she said with an air of succumbing to the inevitable. "My place she look like vun peeg pen, dot Jeem he always leaves tings all ofer, but Meesis Undervood she say you haf to coom oop here right avay und she only geef me two meenits to straighten tings oop, so-o you haf to make best of awful place. Gootbye. I coom oop mit trays right avay."

She flew past us, dust cloth and whisk broom in her hands, and clattered down the back stairs, while Mary and I, with startled glances around the immaculate and orderly sitting room, sank into chairs with the helpless laughter we generally accord Katie's vagaries.

"Do you want to begin right away?" Mary asked when we had stopped laughing.

I shook my head.

"No use starting until after our luncheon has come up," I said. "I shall tell Katie when she brings it that she is not to come back for the trays until I call her. That will insure us an undisturbed session."

"Unless Katie's curiosity gets the better of her," Mary commented cynically.

"I fancy Aunt Lillian will attend to that," I said, and my prophecy was fulfilled when Katie came up with one tray while Lillian carried the other. When they had set the trays down, Katie pulled up a tiny low table with a single unit electric grill upon it, and plugged it into an outlet. Then she transferred a tiny tea kettle to the grill.

"Dere," she said, busy with putting the dishes from the trays on the table Lillian had drawn up, "you kin haf all tea you vant now, fresh, shoost how you like heem. Now!" she stepped back and surveyed the table. "I tink I no forget nuddings. I coom back und get trays, how soon?" She flashed an ingratiating smile at me.

"Thank you, Katie. I'll call you when I'm ready for you," I said, and she went away, patently disappointed.

"I'm here to assure you that she won't do any snooping," Lillian said when Katie's clattering footsteps had died away. "I'll go now and tip off Katharine, so when your father calls for us, she can relieve me in watching your most efficient but too curious handmaiden. And until then, on one pretext or another, I'm going to be in the kitchen and dining room. So eat your luncheon and get at your work with secure and unroubled souls."

She gave us no chance to thank her, for she was gone through the corridor leading to the main part of the house. Mary's eyes were warm and bright as she looked after her.

"What a dear she is!" she said, and I nodded in sincere acquiescence as I seated myself at the luncheon table and motioned Mary to a seat opposite me.

The luncheon was just suited to our needs—a cup of hot, deliciously flavored broth, some creamed chicken on toast, ripe tomatoes from the garden, and a salad dessert of large pear halves with a garnish of cream cheese flavored with sugar and tiny cubed pineapple. Our steaming kettle gave up plenty of hot, fragrant tea, and Lillian's foresight had insured small portions of everything. So we were neither hungry nor replete when we had finished and pushed our chairs, ready for this momentous last rehearsal.

CHAPTER XXI

The Adventuress. What an appropriate name, Star thought, as she worked with Milton making the trim little cruiser shipshape again after it had lain idle for weeks. Star had remembered it only as a cozy haven, a haven indeed when Milton took her on board from the pier that evening and in his kindly manner coaxed her story from her.

Milton's depression, following his wife's departure on another of her many jaunts, had been only too apparent to Star. But now they worked together joyously. Scrubbing and scouring with smell of paint mingling with the warm fresh air. Color whipped into the girl's pale cheeks. Laughter chased the ghosts from Milton's eyes.

When she called him to a lunch of bacon and eggs and canned pork and beans, he devoured it ravenously.

"Some feast," he approved. "Isn't it funny what a day in the open can do for you? This little baby has been worth the price I paid for her a hundred times over. She has come to my rescue more than once."

"Mine, too," she reminded him.

"That's right. I haven't forgotten. You're not sorry I ran after you that night?"

Her blue eyes met his shyly.

"No, are you?"

He shook his head.

"I'm beginning to wonder how I ever got along without you," he admitted, but there was no emotion in the words. "Okay, mate, how about getting back to work? We can't do anything after dark, you know."

* * *

Star washed the dishes and rearranged the freshly papered cupboard. She worked alone but she was not lonely hearing him whistle and sing from the deck. Knowing he was happy was satisfaction enough. She could not have asked for more in one week. Intuitively she felt that by sharing his Sundays on the boat, she would become closer to him than she could in weeks of ordinary office work.

And when he left her at the boarding house, he said, "Thank you, Star. You've been a real pal." Which made her oblivious of the sight of Clifford Payne and Bruce Donovan, her two "Musketeers," leaving arm in arm with two girls.

The days following Jennifer's sailing for Europe flew by like a dream for Star. No longer harassed by the fear of Jennifer's appearance, Star was free to concentrate on her work. Mamie was her only worry and the congenial Mrs. Brady seemed willing and capable of amusing her mother better than Star could have done.

Star had no money for herself and no new clothes, but what did that matter when each day brought her the opportunity to be near the man she loved? She gave her services with quiet devotion and complete understanding. There was no sentiment in their relationship but, free from his wife's disturbing influence, Milton Wood's nerves relaxed. Star saved him from annoyance at every possible point. Surrounded him with an atmosphere of cheerful cooperation. Was always soft-spoken and attentive, never contradicting or intruding her own personality.

At the end of the second week Milton suggested that they spend another Sunday on his boat, adding, "I think we'll be able to take her out by the next week-end."

He assumed that Star would want to go. Took her company for granted. And when the time arrived they spent an unforgettable day cruising on windswept sunny waters. Laughing at nothing, silent without constraint, or discussing his work. Until on the trip back he admitted, "You know I've heard nothing from my wife since she left."

"I thought she might have sent you a cable," Star replied.

He said curtly, "I'll get one as soon as she needs some more money. I'm beginning to think that's about all I mean to her."

* * *

Star did not attempt to express her sympathy. She knew he did not want it. He was expressing his innermost thoughts, so accustomed to talking things over with her that it was like talking to himself.

"I have never understood women," he confessed. "Jennifer doesn't care for me as I hoped she would when we were married, and it must be my fault. She couldn't love me and be leaving me all the time. I know she is often bored with me. She won't even spend one evening alone with me if she can help it. That's why we go out so much."

Suddenly he realized what he was doing. "What a fine egg I am to be crying on your shoulder. After all, there probably aren't any marriages that are really happy. No reason why mine should be any different."

"Don't say that," Star reproached. "In spite of the things I've seen to the contrary, I'd like to believe that marriage can be fine and beautiful."

"That's right. Keep your illusions as long as you can. You are too young to become a cynic."

"But that isn't an illusion," she insisted. "I shouldn't expect to be happy all the time. Even if you loved some one terribly, there would be times when you might get on each other's nerves. Times when you would be bound to misunderstand and become impatient. But in the long run it shouldn't matter. What I mean is, it shouldn't interfere with the fact that at heart you were one, or with the memories you could build up together."

He stared at her in surprise.

"And here I thought you were a completely modern young person. Devoid of sentiment."

"I'm not very sentimental," she admitted. "And I have been forced to conceal my emotions. But that doesn't mean I haven't any. You are the only person I have ever really confided in."

"Thank you, my dear! You are very close to me, too. You have been from that first evening when I found you standing on the pier looking as if you were trying to make up your mind whether or not to jump. You didn't know it, but in my own way I was almost as desperate as you were that night. I had gone away trying to think up some solution to my situation without success. I hated to come back, but in helping you I found the courage I needed. And it takes courage, Star, to live with a woman who looks at you sometimes with what you suspect is resentment."

"Then why do you do it?"

"Because when I ask her she always denies it. Then I tell myself that I must expect too much. In any case, Jennifer is my wife and I shall never leave her."

* * *

Was he talking for his own benefit or hers? To warn her that it was hopeless? Star sighed but she did not say any more. Nothing she could do but stand by and wait. Jennifer had not boasted in vain.

That night Star told herself, in spite of their happy day together, that his attitude had been entirely impersonal. He had taken her along out of gratitude for the work she had done but from now on she would probably not see so much of him. Especially since the morning mail brought the long delayed letter from his wife. Star put it on top of the pile in his basket and managed not to be there when he read it. He made no comment to her but that evening, as she was straightening her desk preparing to leave, he suddenly appeared beside her.

"Are you busy this evening?" he asked.

Light leaped into her eyes but she managed to answer sedately.

"I thought we might have dinner together and go to a show," he continued. "I hate to eat alone."

They left the office by his private door leading into the hall and descended to the street in the same elevator. Star had expected to feel excited, but she was as calm as if they had done it every night. It was the most natural thing in the world to sit across from him listening to him talk. Responding in the quiet way she knew he liked. At the theater and later going home in his car, his manner never varied from the friendly impersonal one he had adopted toward her from the first. But it was the forerunner of other evenings. Soon it became an accepted fact that they would dine together unless he had another engagement. Star lived for those evenings. She had no new clothes to wear. She went as she was from the office but she never felt ill at ease.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

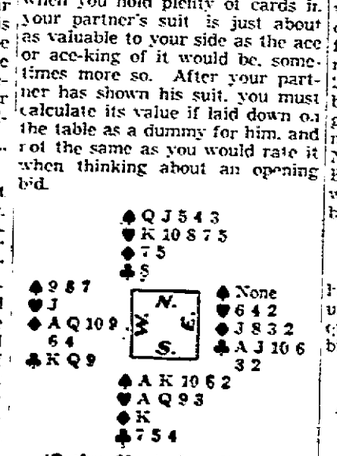
"The Authority on Authorities"

VALUE DISTRIBUTION

Some players get so "honor trick minded" that they overlook an equally effective trick-taking element—distribution. The little cards of a long suit, when established, are just as good as so many more aces. And a blank suit, when you hold plenty of cards in your partner's suit is just about as valuable to your side as the ace or ace-king of it would be, sometimes more so. After your partner has shown his suit, you must calculate its value if laid down on the table as a dummy for him, and not the same as you would rate it when thinking about an opening bid.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	2 ♦
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠

And at a spade game it was played, declarer making two overtricks because the heart J was led, only one trick being lost, in clubs. Against a slam contract, West would have led differently and it would have been held to five-odd.

But the sad part of it is that East and West can make a small slam at diamonds against a heart lead, a grand slam against the probable lead of a spade. West hopped all over his partner, when it was over, for not bidding. East pleaded that he could not dare come in at the five level while vulnerable. He didn't have to. He could have bid 4-Diamonds on his first turn after hearing his partner make a vulnerable overcall of 2-Diamonds. Then, after South bid 4-Spades, West could have gone to 5-Diamonds, at least making sure of a game bid. If North and South overbid that, East ought to go to 6-Diamonds, which probably would get doubled by South.

Three Unbeaten Clubs Still In Running for Cage Title

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—They're going to name Ohio's 1940 high school basketball champions tonight at the state fairgrounds coliseum, and it's a "lead pipe cinch" the two teams that take the titles will be worthy of the laurels.

* * * * *

With the semi-finals to be run off this afternoon, eight teams were still in there battling, and those squads had a grand record for the year of 184 victories and 14 defeats. Ten of the defeats were chalked up against two of the semi-finalists, for three are unbeaten, two have dropped but one game, and another has lost but a pair.

* * * * *

There's a chance that the Class A finals, scheduled at 9 p. m., might turn out to be the "dream game" of the century. Should Canton McKinley and New Philadelphia survive the semi-final round and clash for the crown, the contest would be between the state's only unbeaten squads in the big school sector.

But, for that to occur, Canton McKinley must sweep Massillon aside in the semi-finals, and New Philly must oust a scrappy Dayton Fairview team which last night dumped Cincinnati Woodward after that club had won 21 in a row. McKinley has beaten Massillon twice this year, but the Tigers may turn the tables on the Bulldogs, who have won 21 straight.

In Class B the undefeated Smithfield team, winner of 31 in a row, tangles with New Carlisle of Clark county in one semi-finals game, and the result is regarded as a tossup. The other brings together Glenford and Canfield, the former with a 25-1 win-lost record, and the latter with a 22-5 season. New Carlisle has won all but one of 28 contests.

To reach the semi-finals, those teams did some stellar battling in the second round yesterday.

More than 7,000 spectators sat in on the round of games in which:

1. Warren Bell, Findlay's great forward, fired his team into a five-point lead over Canton McKinley midway in the final quarter, only to lose out during a closing splurge in which Forward Ryman's field goal gave the Bulldogs a 32-30 win. Bell scored 18 points, two under the mark of 20 he set the night before.

2. Chester and Richard McPhee, brothers, staged the greatest two-man scoring spree in the tourney's history, as Canfield beat Holgate 42-28. Behind 4-12 at the quarter and 11-16 at the half, Canfield roared back to score 29 points in the third quarter, with Chet getting 12 points and Dick 11 in the big session. Dick had 19 for the entire game.

3. The Findlay club, in its losing spree against Canton, made good on nine straight charity tosses before missing, finally winding up with 14 one-pointers in 19 attempts.

4. The Shrider cousins of Glenford, Dick and Herb, scored 35 of the 43 points which the Perry county village of 180 persons needed to beat Amanda by three. Trailing 35-31 as the last quarter started, Glenford closed with a rush to snatch the verdict. Dick scored 19 points for a two-game total of 44, the tourney's high mark by something like a mile, while Cousin Herb counted 16.

5. Ken Huddleston, Dayton Fairview's great center who scored 22 points in the opening game, was held to five by Cincinnati Woodward, but the long pivot man's mates got away for enough to win while Woodward had its eye on the big threat.

6. Don Dellinger of Willshire scored 16 points, but couldn't match the entire New Carlisle team, so he's out of the tourney as the result of the 36-32 setback.

Junior Loop Team Favored Over National

Bob Feller to Share Pitching Duties for Americans In Contest for Finnish Relief Fund.

By GAYLE TALBOT

TAMPA—(AP)—Barring a reprieve because of rain or other fortuitous circumstance, the long-suffering National leaguers are due to take another lambasting from their American league tormentors in tomorrow's all-star baseball game for the Finnish relief fund.

The American league has summoned perhaps the most wicked line-up it ever has thrown into an all-star contest. The Nationals look weaker than in any previous game, especially with Joe Medwick absent because of his protracted holdout and their best pitchers not yet in winning form.

* * *

With five New York Yankees and three Boston Red Sox as starters, Manager Joe McCarthy has a stronger American lineup than ever before because of the addition of two slugging sophomores, Charley Keller from the Yankees and Ted Williams of Boston. Probably it is necessary to say no more than that Bill Dickey is batting eighth for the first time in his life.

* * *

At least, the Nationals will not have to look at Red Ruffing and probably Bob Grove. But that is slight comfort with Bob Feller, Buck Newsom, Dutch Leonard, Tom Bridges and Vernon Gomez ready to fire at them.

Following are the starting lineups:

American league—Joe Gordon, Yankees, 2b; Red Rolfe, Yankees, 3b; Charlie Keller, Yankees, lf; Joe DiMaggio, Yankees, cf; Jimmie Foxx, Red Sox, 1b; Ted Williams, Red Sox, rf; Joe Cronin, Red Sox, ss; Bill Dickey, Yankees, c.

National league—Morrie Arnovich, Philadelphia, lf; Cookie Lavagetto, Brooklyn, 3b; Mel Ott, Giants, rf; Johnny Mize, Cardinals, 1b; Ernie Lombardi, Reds, C; Frank Demaree, Giants, Cf; Tony Cuccinello, Bees, 2b; Bill Jurges, Giants, ss.

* * *

American league pitchers: Bob Feller, Cleveland; Buck Newsom, Detroit; Emil Leonard, Washington; Tom Bridges, Detroit; Vernon Gomez, Yankees; Bob Grove, Boston.

* * *

National league pitchers: Bucky Walters, Cincinnati; Paul Derringer, Cincinnati; Harry Gumbert, New York; Luke Hamlin, Brooklyn; Kirby Higbe, Philadelphia; Mort Cooper, St. Louis; Clyde Shoun, St. Louis.

Ten Quintets Open Tourney Monday Night

Junior Classic Scheduled To Open at Friendly House at 6:15.

Ten youthful quintets swing into action Monday night in the Friendly House Junior basketball tournament at the settlement.

* * *

The survivors of opening round of play will return Tuesday night for the semi-finals, with the championship finals scheduled for Wednesday night.

* * *

Monday's initial tilt is set for 6 15 p. m., with the other tussles following at 45 minute intervals.

The Rex Juniors meet the Daley Cafe in the first setto, Boy Rangers play the Boston Market in the second affray, Ontario Boy Scouts tackle the Mansfield All-Stars in game No. 3, the Ashland Comets clash with the Mansfield Golden Flashes in the fourth session and Lincoln Heights and St. Edwards five of Ashland perform in the final.

Referees for the tournament are "Frappy" Underwood and Mike Wentz. Bob Boyd will be the official scorer and Tony Augustine the officials timer. Seven-minute quarters will prevail in the first round tilts. Boys 15 years and under are eligible to play in the affair.

Carone Meets Jim Heffner

Chicago Grappler Signed for One of Feature Bouts.

Fred Carone, rugged Italian from Chicago has been signed to meet Jimmy Heffner, Texas junior-heavyweight, in one of the two main features of next Monday night's double header mat show in the Armory.

* * *

Tim Nolan, matchmaker for the Quality club stated today that he had secured Carone to come to meet Heffner in a two out of three falls match with a one hour time limit.

* * *

The other feature of the card and one that is likely to be one of the wildest mat contests seen here in many years pits the Masked Marvel, against "Bull" Marino, rough and ready Italian from New York City's famed lower east side.

This contest also is carded for two out of three falls with a one hour time limit.

Carone is one of the better known 200 pound wrestlers of the middle west and in and around Chicago he is rated one of the very toughest in the game.

SPORTS PARADE

By HENRY McLEMORE.

ST. PETERSBURG —(U.P.)— The New York Yankees aren't quite ready to fall apart.

* * *

The chances are they will stagger through the 1940 season and manage to win the pennant by 10 or 12 games.

* * *

This information, which is scarcely exclusive, was gained after only one day in St. Petersburg. As a matter of truth, it was gained after only one hour of sitting around and talking to Bill Dickey. As the veteran of the team, as the man with the longest term of service with the world champions, it is only natural to assume that the first signs of erosion will appear in Dickey.

So, I sought him out, in order to study him at first hand and determine if the greatest catcher in baseball was opening at the seams and showing signs of wear and tear after 12 years of work with the Yankees.

Sad news though it be to the other seven clubs in the league, I must say that Dickey appears as hale and hearty as the day he broke in behind the bag in Yankee stadium in 1928.

Only two days ago in a game against the Cincinnati Reds, he scored from second base on a short single, crossing the plate with a slide that Ty Cobb wouldn't have been ashamed of in his palmiest days.

In addition to health and vitality, Dickey has the soundest knowledge of rival batters and pitchers in the American league.

As Dickey points out it is a bit absurd to predict a crack-up of the Yankees.

"Sure, we've won four pennants in a row, and four world series," he said, "but how many veterans have we on our team? Just two, that's all. Red Ruffing and myself. The rest of the team is young, up and coming, and eager, and if you think Ruffing is slowing down, just come out and catch him some mornings. He is better this year than he has been in a long time, and that's saying plenty."

Dickey believes that Charley Keller, the freshman sensation of last year, and the hero of the world series, will begin to reach his full stature this year.

"There's a great ball player. He can knock the cover off the ball and he can go and get it."

Dickey thinks Lee Grissom, the pitcher obtained from the Reds, will win plenty of ball games for the Yanks.

* * *

"There aren't many better fast balls in baseball than his," Dickey said, "and he is a worker. He is going to be a real surprise."

* * *

As for the rest of the Yanks—well, what more do you want than a DiMaggio in center, a Selkirk in left, a Rolfe on third, a Crosetti on short, a Gordon on second, and a Dahlgren at first?

Indians Face Newark Bears

Cleveland Beats Nats, 2 to 0, Yesterday.

FORT MYERS — (INS) — The Cleveland Indians traveled to Sebring today to take on the Newark Bears of the International league after defeating the Washington Senators 2 to 0 in their first game against big league opposition.

* * *

The tribesmen worked behind the pitching of Bill Zuber. Harry Eisenstat and Johnny Humphries in yesterday's game, and maintained their slim lead by fast fielding that had the Senators helpless.

* * *

Outhit 8 to 6, the Indians bunched four of their safe blows in the first inning to score the only two runs of the game.

High School Boy Makes Good

Stanley Schwid, above, may remind old New York Giants fans of the great Waite Hoyt who went straight from a New York high school baseball diamond to the Giants and stardom. Schwid, a graduate of Commerce high, New York, paid his own way to the Giants' Winter Haven, Fla., training camp and paid his expenses there. His zeal was so great and he has shown such undeniable ability he has been awarded a job with one of the Giant farm clubs.

BLUE GOOSE LOSES

Mansfield Blue Goose Sohio cagers dropped a 25 to 15 decision to the Burmingham Firemen in the 6th annual independent basketball tournament at Willard last night. The score of the Smokehouse-Findlay Lime and Stone game was not reported. The boxscores of the Blue Goose game are not available.

Delaware Moose Keglers In Third

DETROIT —(U.P.)— The largest delegation of regular teams in the 10-day-old American Bowling congress championships swings into action at state fairgrounds coliseum tonight led by the Budweisers of the St. Louis classic league who rolled 2,971 at Cleveland last year.

* * *

A new five-man team to shoot into the higher scoring brackets was the Delaware Moose quintet of Delaware, O., which posted 804, 1023, and 973 for a 2,800 total good enough for third place. The Virginia Boosters of St. Louis took fifth place with a 2,783.

* * *

A feature of the ten-pin tourney last night was the appearance of Jack Slater, grey-haired veteran from Dayton, O., in his 26th year of competition. The Ohioan, 85, had games of 142-139-144.

SPORTS GOSSIP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK —(AP)— The books have made Bobby Jones a 25-1 shot in the Augusta Masters' tournament. . . . Buddy Baer, the fighter, weighed 13 pounds at birth and has been growing ever since. . . . Mike Tresh, White Sox catcher, has succumbed to the California weather and will buy a home and move his family out there. . . . Welby Van Horn, who may be on top of the tennis heap before you know it, will confide in a magazine piece soon that he hates to watch tennis—"too dull and uninteresting" . . . Valentin Campolo may not be the best heavyweight in the world, but he's always trying. He threw his shoulder out of joint bopping a sparring partner yesterday.

* * *

* * *

The Texas Christian football team plans to fly to and from Chapel Hills for the North Carolina U. game next fall. . . . President Ford Frick has promised Lon Warneke a chance to umpire in the National league when his pitching days are over. . . . Johnny Bulla, the golf pro and Sam Snead, the same, are thinking of buying a plane to cover the winter circuit by air next season. . . . Jimmy Foxx says the Giants look awfully small to him . . . and if the dope the Boston scribes are getting is true, Horace Stoneham and Bill Terry don't expect to see another bunting flying in the polo grounds breese for another four seasons.

READY TO GO. The U. of Arkansas is all set for the next basketball season . . . The kings may have departed, but the captains haven't . . . The coach can put on the floor as starters one captain, one sub-captain, one ex-captain and one ex-sub captain . . . (a sub-captain is an alternate who has taken over when the regular head man is off the court.)

BELIEVE-IT-OR-NOT. This may be an old story about baseball's "Mr. Brains," but it has just hit this desk. . . . Back in 1928, wealthy Chicago admirers of Moe Berg tried to present him with a $25,000 purse . . . Berg turned it down . . . "I've done nothing to merit it," he said.

Marks May Tumble

Butler Relay Participants Threaten Half Dozen Records Tonight.

INDIANAPOLIS — (AP) — One world's record and perhaps a half-dozen meets marks may be kicked into oblivion tonight as star college track and field performers renew for the eighth time the Butler university indoor relays.

* * *

Approximately 10,000 spectators are expected to fill the big fieldhouse for the opening events—the pole vault and high jump—which begin at 7 o'clock C. S. T.). Twenty-six schools have 350 entrants in the meet.

* * *

Host Coach Ray Sears predicted today there was "an excellent chance" that the present world indoor mark of 6:37.4 for the mile-and-a-half would be erased by a strong field entered in that special event. Edvin Wide of Sweden hung up the record in 1927.

Starters in the feature event will be Greg Rice, former Notre Dame star who broke world's records for two miles and three miles in his last two starts; Walter Mehl, graduate student at Wisconsin; John Munski of Missouri, big six mile champion; Joe McCluskey of the New York A. C.; Ken Waite, formerly of Michigan State; Fred Wilt, Indiana university freshman, and Earl Mitchell, Butler freshman who will pace the first mile.

* * *

Michigan Normal threatens the Butler mark of 8:01.3 in the college division two-mile relay, established by Pittsburgh (Kan.) Teachers in 1936.

* * *

There are possibilities of new marks in the 60-yard low hurdles, pole vault, shot putt and college mile relay.

Beagle Club Stages Derby

The Olentangy Beagle club will stage its 13th annual spring derby Sunday at the running grounds on the R. B. Gardner farm six miles east of Mansfield. The event will get under way at 8 a. m.

Thirteen inch dogs will be drawn in the initial session with 15-inch dogs following at 11 a. m. Four beagles in each class will qualify for the Ohio championship stakes at Greenfield March, 30 and 31.

Only pure-bred beagles, whelped in 1939, and eligible for registration in the American Kennel association, can compete in the meet Sunday. Judges for the derby are O. L. Venus of Akron and John Geiger, Logan, O. The event is free to the public, it was announced today.

'PEACE SCARE' RESTRAINING MART DEALINGS

Some Comfort Derived from Survey That Stores Sales Indicate Expansion.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Although there was little to back it up, the "peace scare" continued as a restraining influence in today's early market dealings.

Some market comfort was derived from the federal reserve board's survey of last week's department store sales throughout the country indicating an expansion of 11 per cent over the corresponding 1939 period. In the previous week the year-to-year increase amounted to 6 per cent.

On the side of rail shares was the summary of the Association of American Railroads disclosing gross revenues for 91 class 1 carriers in February topped the same month a year ago by 12 6 per cent.

Analysts saw a favorable omen in a jump in February shoe production. The Tanners' Council of America placed last month's output in this field at 37,000,000 pairs compared with 33,744,000 in January and 35,457,000 in February, 1939.

THEATERS

Civil War Plot.

To refight the Civil war in Hollywood requires almost as much preparation as the original battle plans. But for once a new angle is discovered in "The Man From Dakota" which is showing at the Madison theater beginning today. The leading characters are two Yankee prisoners who escape the Confederate prison camp and a Russian girl who joins them, after killing a Confederate officer who mistreated her. The result is one of the fastest moving melodramas of the year. Wallace Beery, John Howard and Dolores Del Rio compose the leading part of the cast.

* * *

Love Outside Law.

The story of "Castle on the Hudson" the film which is showing at the Ohio theater, beginning today, is essentially one of life and love outside the barriers of the law, and of two lovers who defy the forces that strive to keep them apart. John Garfield and Ann Sheridan play the leads, with Pat O'Brien in the supporting cast, as is Burgess Meredith, the stage star. Garfield is a cocky, arrogant young gangster

* * *

Five Little Pepper Series.

"Five Little Peppers at Home" which will begin Sunday at the Majestic theater is based upon Margaret Sidney's juvenile classics, beloved of millions of readers, bringing to life the events of a brave-hearted gang of kids. Edith Fellows is featured as Polly the "little mother" of the Pepper brood. This is the story of the Pepper family, their struggle against adversity. The second feature will be "The Man They Could Not Hang," with Boris Karloff as the King of Horror.

* * *

In Bali and Philippines.

Fred MacMurray and Madeleine Carroll are teamed for romance and comedy in the film "Honeymoon in Bali," with Allan Jones, co-starred, and Helen Broderick, Osa Massen and Carolyn Lee, four-year-old, in the supporting roles. This is being shown at the Ritz theater beginning Sunday. The co-feature will be Gary Cooper in "The Real Glory," which unfolds an exciting tale of the Philippine scouts and their bravery at the conclusion of the Spanish-American war, when the Philippines were overrun by insurrectionists and religious fanatics.

* * *

Realism to Comedy.

Showing at the Park theater beginning Sunday will be "When Germany Surrendered," an authentic World war production. Germany's Kaiser and his son, the Crown Prince, are shown directing the German troops. Foch of France, Haig of England, Pershing of the United States, all commanders of the strategy of the allied forces are to be seen The second feature will be "Music in My Heart" starring Tony Martin and Rita Hayworth.
